- Journey Mapping/Customer Experience

The Managing Director of Strategy will often serve as the face of the firm, building new business and partner relationships, nurturing and expanding current client engagements, and authoring buzzed-about blog posts and white papers along with the strategy team. They'll not only inspire their team, but also inspire new products and service offerings—this is a position for someone who sees opportunities and makes them realities.

What we're looking for

- MBA in Marketing or related field preferred

- Must be a responsible and inspirational leader
